

Ultimo Science Festival

Friday 21 – Sunday 30 August 2009

The Ultimo Science Festival is ten days and nights of serious science fun for families, for schools, for young, old and in-between, for geeks and non-geeks. There's something for anyone who wants to expand their mind, think about the world and wonder about how stuff works and why it is so.

The Festival is proudly presented by the Powerhouse Museum, the Australian Broadcasting Corporation, the University of Technology Sydney and TAFE NSW. It is supported by the Australian Government and the City of Sydney.

The Festival will showcase the considerable scientific credentials of these four organisations that created it, bringing together scientific research, technology, engineering, design, education, communication and entertainment.
